CMCC signs a new articulation agreement with the University of Regina

TORONTO, ON, December 2, 2024: A new articulation agreement between the University of Regina (U of R) and the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College (CMCC) is set to provide qualified students with the opportunity to complete both a Bachelor of Kinesiology and a Doctor of Chiropractic (DC) degree in just seven years, instead of the typical eight.

This agreement allows U of R students to meet the requirements for their undergraduate kinesiology degree at U of R while simultaneously fulfilling components of the DC program at CMCC.

"We're thrilled to partner with the University of Regina to offer students in Saskatchewan a streamlined path to chiropractic," says Dr. Christine Bradaric-Baus, President of CMCC. "This partnership empowers students to begin their journey toward becoming a chiropractor right from the start of their undergraduate studies."

"The University of Regina is pleased to partner with the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College to provide our Bachelor of Kinesiology graduates with this exciting opportunity," said David Gregory, Provost and Vice-President (Academic) with the U of R.

"Chiropractors serve an essential role in our primary health care system and this agreement facilitates the recruitment and development of our graduates into this in-demand profession."

"This agreement offers a unique opportunity for students from the University of Regina to fast-track their careers toward becoming practicing Doctors of Chiropractic," adds Dr. Mark Perrett, Chair of the CMCC Board of Directors. "It also presents a valuable benefit for students from Western Canada by reducing tuition costs and accelerating their entry into the chiropractic profession."

Consideration for entry into the pathway program begins this academic year.

About CMCC

The Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College is an academic institution recognized for creating leaders in spinal health. With graduates practicing in 52 countries and faculty who are leaders in their fields, CMCC delivers world-class chiropractic education, research, and patient care. CMCC offers a four-year undergraduate program leading to a Doctor of Chiropractic Degree. This program is offered under the written consent of the Minister of Training, Colleges and Universities until 2030.

Spearheaded by the McMorland Family Research Chair in Mechanobiology with a focus on spine instability, degeneration, and joint dysfunction, CMCC researchers and graduate students contribute to the understanding and management of neuromusculoskeletal conditions. The Toronto campus features modern teaching and laboratory space, including new simulation and biomechanics laboratories with Force Sensing Table Technology® and extends across Toronto through its network of community-based interprofessional clinics that serve diverse patient populations. A not-for-profit, charitable organization, CMCC receives no direct government funding and relies on tuition, donations, auxiliary revenue, and special events for support.

About the University of Regina

2024 marks our 50th anniversary as an independent university (although our roots as Regina College date back more than a century!). As we celebrate our past, we work towards a future that is as limitless as the prairie horizon. We support the health and well-being of our more than 17,200 students and provide them with hands-on learning opportunities to develop into career-ready graduates – more than 92,000 alumni enrich communities in Saskatchewan and around the globe. Our research enterprise has grown to 21 research centres and includes 9 Canada Research Chairs. Our campuses are on Treaties 4 and 6 - the territories of the nêhiyawak, Anihšīnāpēk, Dakota, Lakota, and Nakoda peoples, and the homeland of the Michif/Métis nation. We seek to grow our relationships with Indigenous communities to build a more inclusive future.

Let's go far, together.
