

Cost of Attendance (COA) 2021-2022

The Cost of Attendance (COA) is an estimate of reasonable educational expenses a student should anticipate for the study period. What is included in this estimate is determined by the US federal law. These expenses include direct costs which are associated with attending CMCC and indirect costs.

Direct costs include tuition and ancillary fees. Indirect costs will factor in a student’s cost of living including room & board, textbooks & supplies, health insurance, and other miscellaneous living expenses (e.g. food, transportation, personal hygiene, recreation, and more).

| CMCC Doctor of Chiropractic Degree Program (Full-time) | | |
|--|--|-----------------|
| Direct Costs | Tuition (academic year) | $31,308 |
| | Ancillary fees (academic year) | $290 |
| | Total Direct Costs | $31,598 |
| Indirect Costs | Room and Board (apartment rental, utilities, meal) | $11,000 |
| | Miscellaneous | $5,000 |
| | Textbooks & Supplies | $856 |
| | Health Insurance | $988 |
| | Total Indirect Costs | $17,844 |
| | COST OF ATTENDANCE | $49,442 |

All fees above are quoted in Canadian dollars.

Please note, CMCC does not have an on-campus residence.*

In accordance to US federal regulations, a student’s awards cannot exceed the cost of attendance. Awards include Title IV funds (loans and grants), all scholarships & bursaries awarded by the school, and third-party awards.

When awarding students their Title IV funds, CMCC will take into account all their earned awards to balance with their COA. This rule is put in place to help prevent over awarding unnecessary funds to the student as they will be obligated to pay back.
